

OddJobbers - Affordable Home Services by College Students

Finding reliable and affordable help for simple home services has long been a problem for many homeowners, but now, there's an app for that. Well, not quite an app yet, more like a mobile-optimized website.

OddJobbers is an online platform that connects people in Spokane looking to get things done around their home (or business) with college students who need to make money to pay for school. Founded by two recently graduated Gonzaga students, OddJobbers is changing the way college students make money and giving Spokane residents a source for trustworthy, reliable help.

The platform allows customers to get help with anything from yard work to moving help to house cleaning. Customers are able to choose how much they are willing to pay for each job and students can accept jobs accordingly. It creates a win - win because customers pay fair value for their job and students get to make an above-average wage to help them pay for school. Since starting in April 2018, students on OddJobbers have completed over 1,000 jobs in the Spokane area.

Getting help is really simple. Customers go to OddJobbers.com to describe their Odd Job and create a brief account. Students that are available will reach out and get the Odd Job done in a timely manner. Students then charge customers over the website and everyone walks away happy!

If you or someone you know needs help with their Odd Jobs, don't hesitate to go to OddJobbers.com, email the team at info@oddjobbers.com, or call at 509-795-2700.
